The letter should be formatted as needed, but make sure that it remains simple and to the point. College coaches do not have time to sit and read a long letter that is hard to interpret. Keep it simple, clean, and easy to understand. Make sure the information is up to date and accurate.

Make plenty of copies, and print out on color paper (not necessary). Most of all, make sure that one of your parents (or guardian) is very capable of distributing the handouts at the showcases without hesitation.
